Area Sq 3118 Sheet ORTONA 141:II	17/1/44		107-N-7 JAN-44 MONDAY ATTACK (see Map &amp; Airphoto). All coys had breakfast at 0330 hrs. Approach March started at 0430 hrs on road sq 3117. Order of March was C, A, B, D coys. C and A coys left assembly area at 0530 hrs, zero hour, with B and D coys following. C coy's objective was rd junc "C" Map Ref 292178. Lieut R B Chamberlain, who was leading the forward platoon, crossed the S.I., the ford 298178 on the road at 0540 hrs. He moved forward from this point and, after encountering a M.G. nest at which three of the enemy were accounted for, he reached the platoon objective by 0730 hrs. Upon arrival he found that he had got too far ahead of the coy on the way up and only had one section consisting of 9 all ranks with him. In the meantime the remainder of the coy under Major MacDougall ran into enemy M.G. and rifle fire as soon as they crossed the ford 298178. Major MacDougall retook their position and decided to storm the house from which the fire was coming. Together with Lieut Rochon and six other ranks he rushed the position. Major MacDougall, Lieut Rochon and 2 other ranks were wounded (believed killed) in the engagement. CSM Kidd of 15 pl and Sgt Thorn took over remainder of the coy. A coy under Capt F B Kennedy whose objective was a blown out bridge "A" 297185 crossed S.I., the gully, and immediately came under heavy M.G. and Mortar fire. He tried to manoeuvre his coy forward sending No 7 pl under Lieut Clements to the left flank. In this engagement Lieut Clements was wounded (believed killed) along with several other ranks of his pl. The PIAT was brought into action against the house 301184 from which the fire was coming and as a result two prisoners were taken. However others immediately took their place and the balance of A coy jumped into "German Dug" slit trenches. Capt Kennedy who was in communication with Lt Col Rutherford informed the C O of his position. The C O immediately got the support of tanks of the Three Rivers Regt, who were in support, and had them fire on the house. This however, failed to dislodge the enemy so the C O ordered B coy to move up and reinforce A coy but after numerous attempts B coy was unable to make contact in sufficient strength to be of any assistance. B coy's objective had been the high ground "B" between A and C coy's objectives. They were to secure this ground after A and C had completed phase 1. However as soon as B coy moved into the gully they were dispersed by heavy M.G. and Mortar fire and had to re-organize. One section of B coy under Lieut Cook managed to get to their objective but in insufficient strength to hold the ground.	Map x 12, 13 Map x 9 Ad

Area Sq 311B Sheet ORTONA 141:II	17/1/44		107-N-8 JAN-44 ATTACK (cont'd) In the meantime D coy whose objective was road fork "D" 291176 found it very hard to get forward from their start line because of heavy Mortar fire. Capt Ridge D coy Comd kept his coy intact and had been ordered to get over the river in the draw sq 2917. At 1100 hrs the C O ordered Capt Ridge to work his coy to the left in an effort to relieve the pressure on C coy. They tried to do this but were met by heavy Mortar and shell fire and were forced to withdraw to the fwd slope of feature held by "C" coy of the Irish Regt. An Arty smoke screen was laid on S.L. of 'C' barrage and overlapped 200 yds at 1330 hrs for 30 minutes in an effort to sweep rd and ford and move up tanks. An additional 20 minutes was added and fair progress was made but no more smoke was available and tanks move one Tp to left flank of our posn. Capt Ridge informed the C O of the situation and the C O laid on heavy arty ap for a new attack by D coy onto C coys objective. Zero hour for the new attack was 1615 hrs and, with his left flank protected by an arty concentration and his right by an excellent smoke screen laid by the Mortar platoon, Capt Ridge moved his coy to within about 200 yds of the objective and on the left of Tollo rd. The part of C coy commanded by CSM Kidd, had remained in the same position and, when contacted by Cpl Pickens of D coy, re-organized and dug in with D coy. During this time A coy had made no progress while suffering considerable casualties from snipers and M.Gs. Every effort had been made by the C O to give them all possible supporting fire but the enemy could not be dislodged. At 0730 hrs A coy were forced to withdraw from their position under cover of darkness. At this time the C O told Capt Ridge to consolidate and that reinforcements would be sent to him. Capt Binnington and 2 sections of his carrier personnel were ordered to go to support D coy. Capt Binnington and his men had previously acted as protection for the engineers who attempted to clear the road of mines but were unable to cross the ford which was covered by heavy enemy M.G. and Mortar fire. Before Capt Binnington could move up, orders were received from Bde to withdraw the Bn. This order was passed to D and C coys.
